

REALITY VS. SHAM! = = PRACTICE VS. THEORY!

Quacks live at the expense of the public and serious practioners. Frauds flourish at the cost of thoughtless and faithful rivals. Trash takes a share of the tribute that belongs of right to worthy stuffs. Theory without practice is ditched in losses. Visions create ideas, but are misleading when applied to materials and prices. There is a lot of the best sociology in honest and enterprising retailing. Neither day dreams nor science are the ends of this business. We are busy and earnest with all the power of capital, brains and distribution at our command in bringing you the best Furniture we can get at the least possible prices.

Six Handsome Baby Carriages Left.

We don't want to carry them over. They are so cheap in price that, if you haven't the money to buy one, borrow it, you will make money.

One Baby Carriage, originally $12, now $	6.50
One Baby Carriage, originally $18, now	10.00
One Baby Carriage, originally $23, now	13 00
Two Baby Carriages, originally $25, now	15.00
One Baby Carriage, originally $33, now	20.00

Did you ever hear of anything so cheap. It is cheapness unmatched. Baby Carriages bring happiness. Buy now and save 50 per cent.

MONEY MAKING DAYS ARE HERE!

Janesville, September 5, 1894.

Midsummer dullness banished. Every day last week crowds of eager buyers came. They all made money by spending it. It was a bear market and we helped the bears. Merchandise gymnastics Acrobatic prices that tumbled and broke. Goods were scrambled for, big lots were closed in a few minhtes. That's last week's story to be repeated this week. The news may read like Munchausen's tales, but the facts are solid---always. It insults Janesville's intelligence to assert the truth of the Ziegler advertising. The business rests on truthful statements. The finest line of

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1548—Catherine Parr (Seymour), sixth wife and widow of Henry VIII, died.

1638—Louis XIV of France was born at St. Germain; king 72 years; died 1715.

1750—Robert Ferguson, Scottish poet, born at Edinburgh.

1857—Auguste Comte, French metaphysician and philosopher, founder of the positivist school, died.

1865—Fire destroyed 15,000 houses, besides mosques and other public buildings, at Constantinople.

1882—Daniel Dougherty, famous orator, lawyer and Democrat, died in Philadelphia; born 1828.

WERE THERE POLICE ENOUGH?

The testimony of the Chicago superintendent of police before the strike investigating commission, that for nearly a month the police preserved order during the strike, and that up to the day when the troops were called out the police force had handled the trouble without any great violence and with practically no destruction of property, must be taken to support the claims of the labor leaders that the military were brought in before the civil authority had been really exhausted. On this point the opinion of the superintendent of police is worth more than the opinions of either strikers or railroad officials. The question is necessarily one where the opinions of different people will differ, according as they view it from one standpoint or another. There will therefore, probably, be no time when it will be settled either way to the satisfaction of all.

CAN LIVE CHEAPLY HERE.

A democratic senator declared the other day that a workingman can live for less in the United States than he can in Great Britain, "provided that he lives as frugally." American wages have for many years past been such that the American laborer has not been compelled to live as frugally as his British cousin. He has been more comfortably housed and more liberally fed, and after that has had more money to spend for outside conveniences and comforts. No one wants to reduce the standard of living on this side of the Atlantic, but the inevitable tendency of the democratic free trade policy is to do so by lowering wages. The American workingman would greatly prefer to retain the differential in his advantage.

AID FOR FIRE SUFFERERS.

Janesville people, far removed as they are from the scenes of suffering, will not forget the loss that has followed the Northern Wisconsin forest fires. A telegram from Cumberland, Wis., informs us that 400 destitute people whose homes have been destroyed are assembled there and are greatly in need of aid. There are other places, as Shell Lake, where 75 houses were reduced to ashes whose inhabitants are suffering from want.

Charity should not pause upon such an occasion. Committees in charge are seeking information as to the state of things at Cumberland and other localities and will co-operate with the state in prompt measures for the relief of sufferers but any aid that can be offered in advance of the formal appeal will be so much the more appreciated.

Women suffragists who say the franchise in woman's hands would be a guarantee against the degradation of politics should explain how the infamous Breckinridge manages to secure the support of all the women in his district.

Congressman Kilgore lays his defeat to free wool. He couldn't pull it over his Texan constituents eyes.

Senator German is said to be writing a letter of sympathy to President Cleveland.

The two-minute trotter is coming closer and closer.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN BRIEF FORM.

By Running Your Eye Down This Column You Find Out What Is Happening In All Parts Of the Bower City—Short Supper-Time Songs.

THE assembly committee for this district consists of S. C. Burnham, C. E. Pierce, John Thoroughgood, F. N. Webster, R. O'Donnell, A. S. Flagg, E. E. Bates, O. J. Rove, Henry Brace, G. H. Davey and J. H. Barker. A call for the convention will probably be issued soon.

MISS LOU CARPENTER is very dangerously ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carpenter, 204 Ravine street. This afternoon, while apparently no better, she is resting more comfortably and her parents take renewed hope that she may survive.

MISS LENA KNIPSCHILD was very pleasantly surprised by a large party of friends at her home on Oak Lawn last evening. The evening was passed in dancing and other amusements and all present had a very enjoyable time.

REV. C. F. PULLEN, the former rector of Christ church, is in Janesville for a few days. The reverend gentleman is spending his vacation among relatives and came down from Evansville yesterday. He is now located at Austin, Minn.

Now is the best time to go and see land in Clark county, for sale by the C. S. Graves Land Co. The present price will be the lowest for which it will ever be offered. Why rent a farm or pay a high price for it when you can buy of this company at only $7.50 per acre, easy terms.

PARTIES desiring pasturage where there is good running water, can be accommodated on the Warner farm at Emerald Grove, where there is pasturage for thirty or forty head of stock. Apply to George Hanthorn, administrator, Milton avenue.

CHENILLE curtains and chenille table spreads at half price—almost 150 pairs in all. Sale will close tomorrow evening. See description on last page. Cash will perform wonders. We don't affiliate with the "keep-the-price-up" concerns. Bort, Bailey & Co.

FLOWER of Japan, as fine a tea as grows, and only fifty cents a pound. It commands the praise of the world, has no poisonous ingredients. We know the tea business from A to Z. That's why we always have the best. Grubb Bros.

A LITTLE early for winter overcoats, still just the time to look at them now. We shall be pleased to show you through the largest overcoat department in the city. Can see our Paddock, Chesterfield or Poole. Our leaders. T. J. Ziegler.

THERE is no use in denying the fact that we lead in the buggy and vehicle business in this section. When we make a statement people know its true. We have a buggy sale. Janesville Machine Co.

I. C. BROWNELL, wife, daughter, Miss Grace Brownell, and son, George Brownell, have broken camp at Lauderdale and returned to their home in Forest Park last evening, having experienced a pleasant season in camp.

DR. R. W. EDDEN, who was badly hurt two weeks ago is able to be out today. He jumped from his carriage in the darkness and struck the wheel of a wagon receiving severe injuries in the abdominal regions.

W. E. CLINTON left this morning for Dundee, Ill. Tomorrow he will meet Mrs. Clinton in Chicago, and they will then go to Bloomington, Ill., spending a week visiting Mr. Clinton's mother.

FOR sale at a bargain.—A four-year old bay mare, sixteen hands high. Weight about 1150 pounds. Sound and gentle. Inquire of W. J. McIntyre at the court house.

We always have quite a number of buggies on hand. Our facilities are such that we never allow ourselves to "run out" of a display. Janesville Carriage Works.

NICE, large No. 2 nut coal $5.25 per ton, delivered. Just as large as half of the nut that is being sold. Come and see it. Janesville Coal Co. J. H. Gateley, Manager.

ONE hundred piece dinner set of Haviland white china, with traced gold decoration, value sixty dollars, now thirty-five dollars. One set only. Wheelock's removal sale.

DR. M. A. NEWMAN, formerly major of the First regiment, W. N. G., now of Chicago, is in the city shaking hands with his old friends and displaying an admirable set of whiskers.

A NUMBER of Janesville people went to Edgerton today to witness the athletic sports given under the auspices of the Edgerton fire department.

Our large stock and the way we buy our goods affords us the best chance to give you the best bargains in shoes and rubbers you have ever had. Brown Bros. & Lincoln.

HOMEMADE white cream candy, peanut candy, coconut candy, fresh today, only fifteen cents a pound. Grubb Bros.

As fine a cup of coffee as you can wish for, we can make from our thirty and thirty-five cent coffee. Grubb Bros.

A WOMAN in our store recently voiced the sentiments of hundreds of sensible thinking women when she said: "I am getting tired of so much loud crowing, make-one-think-they-are-getting-something-for-nothing sort of advertising. Merchants have got to live, and to live they must make a profit, if not on one thing on another. I like to trade here because you run your business in a business-like manner, treat everybody alike. In some stores I know that certain people get extra discounts on goods, while others pay full price, and I don't like it, and I know of others who feel just as I do. I have traded with you for twenty-six years and must say that is long enough to test any man. Good morning." J. M. Bostwick.

YOUNG married people and all others who desire to own their homes, should take advantage of the bargains and easy terms offered by the C. S. Graves Land Co. for the best land in the state.

JERSEY Lily flour has taken the place of many other brands. It is the best. We now sell thirty sacks a day. Special prices in five-pound sack lots. Dunn Bros.

A DEMOREST silver medal contest will be held in the M. E. church, Lhusa Center, Tuesday evening of next week, September 11. All are cordially invited. Admission ten cents.

We are compelled to increase our order every day for fruit, the demand is so great. We receive fruit fresh every morning. Dunn Bros.

WORK on the roof of the Y. M. C. A. building has been suspended, because the slate furnished by a Rockford firm was poor.

R. P. YOUNG leaves on Saturday for Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to attend the Grand Army encampment.

We will endeavor to show everyone who attends the fair next week what a real buggy display is. Janesville Carriage Works.

LAUNDRY calls left at the office of Riverside laundry will receive prompt attention. Work received at office as before.

ANY work left at the office of Riverside Laundry, will receive attention. Office open evenings as usual.

MISS Florence and Lottie Hart are in Chicago visiting relatives and friends.

ATTORNEY E. M. HYZER went to Chicago on the early morning train.

FRESH lake trout and white fish tomorrow noon at Dunn Bros.

MISS BESSIE CONSON has been spending a few days with Monroe friends. Good Templars give a cobweb social to-night. Supper will be served.

STRAINED honey in pints and quarts, delicious at Dunn Bros.

MRS. A. J. WRAY went to Chicago this morning.

GEN. DOE AND HIS "JEFFERSONIAN"

The Assistant Secretary of War Makes a Tour Under Pleasant Conditions.

General Doe is in the city for a day or two on his way around the country inspecting army posts. An elegant private car, "Bay State" helps to make the journey less tedious and to exemplify the Jeffersonian simplicity which General Doe represents.

The car is handsomely furnished and thoroughly equipped with all the modern conveniences, and is a palace on wheels. The desires of the party are looked after by two colored servants and a porter and cook.

After inspecting the regular army post in Janesville for a day or two, General Doe will go to Milwaukee, where a reception will be tendered him Friday by Major Zweitsch.

General Doe has for companions on his trip Captain T. H. Barry of the United States army, Major M. A. Newman of Chicago, and Wilson H. Doe, of Elgin, Ill., brother of the general. They have hunting outfits and dogs along and expect to stop in Yellowstone park and try for big game.

BUT 24 HOURS AWAY AND EVERYONE SHY

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION SOON TO OPEN.

Yet There Is a Surprising Absence Of Pronounced Candidates For Office—Hunner's Ambitions Frowned Upon by Boss Wall and the Other Managers.

Local democrats find no encouragement in the state situation. With the convention of their party less than twenty-four hours away—a party in complete control of all the political and official machinery of the state government—and not a single candidate forging conspicuously and prominently ahead for a nomination near the head of the ticket, is a condition of affairs probably never before seen in the political history of a great state. But that is the actual condition of the democratic party in Wisconsin today. It is a condition worthy of serious contemplation, especially when the party leaders are rendering air with perorations and praise of the great and good work done for the people by the party during its four years of supremacy in the state government, and loudly prophesying another great victory for the party at the polls.

Whether able men in the party regard the claims by the leaders of coming success as mere bosh, and can see only defeat from their point of reasoning, and therefore are not anxious to be sacrificed on a ticket for which they can see only hopeless annihilation, politically, in the coming victory at the polls, or whether they believe all of the optimistic declarations and feel that there is but one set of men in their party in Wisconsin worthy and competent to fill state offices, is a question which they could best answer if they would.

Hunner Opposed by the Bosses.

The announcement is given out from the headquarters of the bosses that all the available portion of the present administration will be renominated for a third term. Present indications are that State Treasurer Hunner's efforts to secure the nomination for governor, will fail. By the party bosses who want Governor Peck renominated, Mr. Hunner's movement is regarded as rank insubordination, and they will spare no effort necessary to squeeze the life out of his boom at the earliest possible moment. Another disadvantage under which Mr. Hunner labors is the fact that the anti-administration element in the party does not take very kindly to his candidacy, because of his four years of intimate connection with the administration. As is usually the case with a dissatisfied member of a family or party, they individually prefer something entirely new. One in no way connected with the present administration would have won favor more rapidly, but none such has appeared before the people.

CROP REPORTS FROM THE STATE
Corn Ripening Rapidly and Will Give Half a Crop—Potatoes Are Fair.

According to the state crop reports conditions have changed but little during the past week. Corn is ripening rapidly and the early planted, is being cut.

It is the general opinion among the crop reporters that the yield will be about half an average crop.

In some cases, when planted on light soil, corn is a failure and the stalks are being cut for fodder.

Potatoes are holding their own, even where the soil is entirely devoid of moisture, and on low grounds a fair yield will be secured.

Very little plowing has been done owing to the dry condition of the soil.

Pastures have generally failed and fall feed is poor, causing a constant falling off in the milk supply.

Clover crop light.

Apples in some sections are very plentiful and in others the crop is a partial failure.

Threshing is progressing rapidly and a good yield of small grains is everywhere reported and fully up to the average in most cases.

Cranberries and tobacco not reported.

BRIEF BITS OF STATE NEWS.

THE Racine county democrats favor George W. Peck for governor.

A GRAVEL boulevard three miles long is being built at Green Bay.

THE Tweed advertising company of Portage has been incorporated with a capital of $15,000.

THE vaccination order of the state board of health has been rigidly enforced at Racine.

THE Dane county republican convention will be held at Madison September 20.

JEFFRIS NOT SWEEPED BY FLAMES

Janesville Lumbermen Not Among the Sufferers From the Pine Fire.

An unfounded report was started on the street this morning that the little town of Jeffris, owned by the Messrs. Jeffris of this city was surrounded by the forest fires and would undoubtedly be destroyed. D. K. Jeffris wrote a letter last evening from that place which was received from his brother W. S. Jeffris of the savings bank this morning, in which nothing was said about the forest fires but it was stated that on Sunday and Monday they had a heavy rain fall.

"There is no truth in the report of Jeffris fires," said W. S. Jeffris. "If there had been any danger from forest fires Dave would have said something about it."

MANY BIDS ON THE HIGH SCHOOL

Architects Pore Over the Plans Until Late at Night.

The indications are that a large number of bids will be laid before the school board tomorrow afternoon for building the new high school. The plans and specifications have been in the clerk's office for a week, and no time has passed without some contractor figuring over them. The builders were not idle on Sunday even, and some have worked late in the night. Today at one time there were twelve contractors figuring over the plans. This fact would indicate that the bids will be numerous, and the competition sharp. The bids will be opened by the school board at 2:30 o'clock.

CAPTAIN JACK IN CLOVER.

The Poet Scout in the Line of a Society Lion in London.

Captain Jack Crawford, the poet scout, who is well known among Grand Army men in Janesville, is in clover abroad where he has gone to claim his share of a large estate left by a relative. Speaking of him a press dispatch says: "Captain Jack Crawford, the poet scout, is attracting much attention in London. He has been taken up by the newspapers and is becoming somewhat of a society lion. Monday next, under the auspices of Canon Wilberforce, Captain Crawford is to address an audience in the parish hall, Westminster."

Prominent Candidate For Sheriff Was Not Mentioned Last Evening

In publishing the names of the various candidates who will be before the republican county convention, The Gazette unintentionally omitted the name of J. E. Gleason, of La Prairie, who is a prominent figure in the race for sheriff. The Gazette corrects its mistake, adding that Mr. Gleason is receiving assurance of support that shows he will by no means be the last one under the wire in the first heat.

E. B. SMITH SUCCEEDS H. R. JOHNSON.

Platteville Man Comes to Janesville as C. M. & St. Paul Agent.

E. B. Smith, agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway at Platteville, has been appointed agent at Janesville, vice H. R. Johnson, deceased. Mr. Smith is to take charge of the company's business here tomorrow. There will probably be no other change in the local department here. It is not known who will succeed Mr. Smith at Platteville.

J. G. ALDEN IS RECOVERING SLOWLY

Injuries Received On Milwaukee Street Will Confine Him Several Days.

James G. Alden, who was so badly injured last Saturday by being run down by a horse and buggy on Milwaukee street bridge, is slowly recovering at the Oak Lawn hospital. Mr. Alden was severely shaken up, besides sustaining some quite severe internal injuries. It will be some days before he will be able to venture out.

ANSWERED THE FINAL SUMMONS.

Herbert Spencer.

Herbert Spencer, aged eight years and eleven months, only child of Professor and Mrs. F. W. Spencer, died at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowerman, 29 Ruger avenue, yesterday afternoon, of typhoid pneumonia. Master Herbert inherited from his father a love of music, and for one of his years had become a remarkable performer. He had traveled considerably and taken part in concerts for over four weeks, and his death is a sad blow to his parents. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. W. F. ReQua, were held at the home of Mr. Bowerman at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, when the remains were taken to Edgerton. Funeral service will be held in Edgerton, from the home of John Spencer, grandfather of deceased, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Funeral of Mrs. Stout.

The remains of Mrs. Mary L. Stout, widow of D. R. Stout, were buried in Oak Hill this afternoon. Funeral services were held at the home, corner of North Jackson and West Bluff streets at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. S. P. Wilder of the Congregational church conducted the services, he being assisted in the song service by the Congregational choir. There was a large attendance, many friends accompanying the funeral party to the grave. The pall bearers were J. A. Denniston, J. T. Wright, H. S. Woodruff, E. J. Kent, J. L. Spellman, Charles H. Stoller.

Busford.

The three-days' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Busford, residing about one mile south of the city on the Beloit road, died yesterday morning, and was buried in Mount Olivet this morning, funeral services being held at St. Patrick's church at 11 o'clock.

BURGLARS ENTER BUT GET NO BOOTY

THREE HOUSES INVADIED BY MIDNIGHT PROWLERS

Windows Forced and Doors Opened In Evansville, But In No Case Was Any Plunder Secured—Woman Scared Them From One House By Her Question.

Burglars attempted to enter J. West's house in Evansville, last night but something, perhaps a neighboring watch dog, frightened them away.

C. J. Pearsall's house was next entered. The thieves removed a screen at the window and muddy footprints showed where they went. An open door showed where exit was made. As yet Mr. Pearsall can find nothing missing.

The home of Seymour Smith, in the same block as Pearsall's residence, was visited. Mrs. Smith heard some one moving about the house and thinking it was her husband called out:

"Is that you Seymour?"

The burglars thinking they could "see more" out doors hastily withdrew minus booty. A general cleaning up of revolvers is going on and watch dogs are at a premium.

A Suggestion as to Fall Suits.

We will take your measure and make you a fall suit to your order from $16 upwards. Trousers $4 and upwards. An elegant line of samples of foreign and domestic wools. No merchant tailor in the city can compete with us. We guarantee a perfect fit. If you are not pleased it will not cost you anything to experiment. Will you give us a trial on this condition? T. J. ZIEGLER.

The Shoe Pinches.

When we have something that the people like we want to spread the news in such a conspicuous way that everybody will see it. As a rule we have something that pleases every day, and the people know it; they also know we divide all the profits, and are continually forcing down high prices; that's why those "keep the price up" fellows are so nervous.

SHE WOULD NOT SAY IT FIRST.

Conflicting feelings tore my heart
With ever swiftest pace,
Now happiest of earthly men,
Now meanest of my race.

I loved her true with all my heart
And sought to pave the way
To settle all my fevered doubts
And have her name the day.

I asked her if she loved me,
At least a score of times,
She answered "No" to every one
By word, note, prose and rhymes.

But yet the way she said it
Left hope within my heart,
And hope will hold a lover
Nor permit him to depart.

I said one day, "I love you,
Yes, I love you more and more!"
She blushed and smiled, "Why, did you not Tell me of that before?"
—Ned Whately in Detroit Free Press.

A BACKWOODS HERO.

Upon the northern shore of Lake Superior, smuggled in between sun tipped hills, is a small village known best for its lumbering and shipping industries. A long neck of narrow land forms a natural breakwater and thus guards and protects the small town from Neptune's wrath. The harbor is scarcely more than two miles wide and four long, but is celebrated for its uncontrollable currents, jagged hidden rocks and Aprilish moods.

On this neck of land are scattered a few houses, all inhabited by lovers of the sea and nature's work and surrounded by dense groves of swaying pines. One day a few years ago there came from one of these houses a dark eyed young woman whose skin was roughened from the fierce lake winds and whose hands showed only too plainly that hard, coarse work befell her lot. Her boots were heavy, like those of a man. Her gown was not only ill fitting, but sadly behind the times as regards style and lacking by several inches its proper length, and on her head was drawn down closely over her ears a man's felt hat. Yet, notwithstanding these proofs of the uncouth woman, there was a certain indescribable something about her gypsylike face that betold the possession of a fine mind and a strong, unbending character. It was neither the soft brown eyes nor the smiling mouth, for her features were extremely plain, and the straight fringe of hair that tendriled out now and then from under the curved hat brim gave the round cheeks a ghastliness that reminded one shiveringly of witches and goblins and evil spirits. In her arms she carried a pair of oars, wrapped in a small sail. Around her feet frolicked several kittens, and a huge black and white dog bounded along beside her.

She walked slowly toward a small dock that floated unsteadily out into the bay. A flat bottomed boat, with a splinter-like mast and no bowsprit, bumped against the dock now and then with a soft rubbing and nudging that was as soothing as a mother's evening lullaby. "It looks pretty threatening, seems to me," the girl murmured to herself. "This here bay is always ready to cut up its monkey shins just when folks want it to behave itself. If it wasn't for daddy coming home tonight, and mother sick, and nothing much to eat in the house, I believe I'd give up going across for the groceries." Then, noticing a parting of the thick bushes that bordered the pathway and catching a passing glimpse of a faded yellow hat, she called out, "Hello, Jim!"

The next moment she was joined by a stalwart young man, with the wholesome appearance of a combination farmer and sailor.

"Going to sail over to the point, Meg?" he asked.

"Yes. You can go if you want to," she replied, with mischievous eyes and twitching lips. "I guess 'twon't be the first time that the little dory has carried two passengers."

"We'd better hurry, I reckon," rejoined Jim. "The old lake is a-raging, and the bay looks a bit ill tempered now. We'll have a thundering old storm before next sunrise, and I shouldn't be surprised if it arrived before midnight."

Together they hoisted the sail, adjusted the rudder and unfastened the lines.

Jim seated himself in the stern, Meg dropped down on the seat in the center of the boat so as to lower and raise the centerboard, as Captain Jim ordered, and off they sailed like a bird let loose from captivity. Both were good sailors, and the simple fact that a huge wave deluged them now and then added zest to the sport.

"I say, Meg," began Jim as they plunged through towers of foam and rocked and swayed in the billows, "don't you think you're mighty hard on a fellow? Three years is a long time, and time does change folks and things so. Anyhow I don't see what you're driving at. I've known you since you were knee high to a grasshopper, and I don't like the idea of losing you after all these years of work and waiting. Your dad and your mother are willing, you say you don't dislike me, and you know what I think of you. Come, now, tell me your reasons for this three years' waiting business."

"I suppose my reasons are silly," Meg answered slowly and with irritating deliberation. "But, you see, that year at Miss Banker's spoiled me. Even if I was nothing but a parlor maid, I got some ideas in my head that stick like so many burrs. I don't always want to live this way. I've spent every cent I've had on the books, and Miss Banker has helped me lots. I want to be educated and know how to talk. I long to be able to be like the town girls, not so far as dress goes, but it's the schooling that I want. When I read about those clever women who paint and write and teach, it makes me think that my world is too small and cramped to ever grow any bigger unless I break away soon. I love the water, and the woods, and the damp earth itself, but I am wild to be up and doing and working at something that will not end today just as it did yesterday and will again tomorrow. I—" just then, tipping it perilously and sending the girl's hair flying in a still wilder fashion. It was soon followed by another, and the third raised the small sail until it stood round and erect like a funnel shaped cone of white canvas.

A violent breeze struck the little dory

A queer grating sound beneath, a crackling of wood and iron and stone, and the rudder was wrenched from Jim's hand. Words were not necessary just then. Each realized that they two were being toyed with and tossed around like helpless straws. The sail was unmanageable, and the lost rudder left them entirely at the mercy of the wind and waves.

"Come here with me!" Jim cried hoarsely as he reached for the shivering bundle with the flying hair and frightened eyes. He drew Meg toward him, all the time keeping a firm hold on the line that prevented the sail from flapping more desperately.

Above the roar of the water he heard her nervous laugh, and once she said, "I think I'd be right scared if it wasn't for our getting caught in these squalls so often."

The boat was careening like a live creature maddened with pain. The water dashed over the little dory that was speeding toward the shore at an unprecedented speed. Crowds of curious watchers lined the beach where they would land. As they neared the shore Jim said tremblingly: "This is the worst fix we've been in yet. We'll be dashed to pieces on the logs unless they try to help us."

He folded his strong arms around the small girl, and he pressed her hands fondly and whispered words of hope and courage.

"Tell me just once that you do care for me just a little bit, and that you won't back out of marrying me at the end of three years," he said. "Our chances for getting out of this alive are few, and I know if you don't answer now you never will. Please, please, please, Meg!" His voice was pitched loudly and shrilly.

"I can't promise for sure, Jim. I can't even now. I'm so frightened. I know we're both going to die. The waves never scared me before." And the rest was lost as an enormous roll of water deluged them.

No other word was said. A moment later there was a wild crashing and creaking of timber.

The anxious watchers saw the boat tossed in among a nest of logs that lined the beach.

Like a crowd of stupid, senseless beings, they gazed and wrung their hands. Then they saw a tall form raise itself up in the stern of the boat. He had something in his arms that looked like a woman swathed in a piece of tarpaulin. The boat was only a few rods from the shore and was just ready to fall to pieces. Suddenly the tall figure leaped into the water, with his helpless burden in one arm, while with the other he fought his way among the billows and rolling logs. The watchers rushed to his assistance. They saw him whirled and buffeted around much as a mouse being teased by a frolicsome minded cat. He had nearly reached the shore when an enormous log flung itself against him. With a mighty effort he threw his burden toward the frantic assembly of people.

Then he sank and was seen no more until the next day, when his crushed and mangled body floated gently on the now restful waves, which finally deposited his remains at the foot of the little dock where the dory had always tugged and pulled at its anchor ropes.

And that is the reason why a woman considered clever and gifted by the world's critics is always sad and heart-sick when she hears the moaning of the winds or the roaring of beating, restless water. Fame and fortune have come to her.

She is no longer a crude, uncultured creature with flying black hair and rough fingers. The world bows down in reverence to her, for her stories are read by thousands and her pictures received most favorably by all. She laughs, and her friends declare her to be the jolliest person in Christendom. But when a storm comes up, and the skies darken, and the air is filled with dire foreboding, she sinks into a sad, lifeless being, whose eyes are heavy with unshed tears and whose throat is choked with sobs.

At these times her friends depart and murmur soft words of pitying tenderness among themselves. —Chicago News.

WHAT THEY SAID.

A Tale of the Gentle Smile and the Awful Sequel.

The night was as balmy as Gilead and Macallister McIlhenny had a dollar in his pocket. This was unusual, for what he ordinarily had in his pocket was a bunch of keys and a knife with three of the blades broken out.

And Macallister McIlhenny was happy. Any man ought to be happy with money in his pockets and hope in his heart, and Macallister McIlhenny was in that fix, for the girl he wanted to foreclose an emotional mortgage on had given him a gentle smile that very afternoon. He was now on his way to see her and he crooned a love ditty as he walked.

At the door of her palatial mansion he was met by a liveried servant.

"Is Miss Montague at home?" he asked lightly.

"She is not, sir."

The reply set him back four pegs.

"Is her father at home?" he asked on a second attempt.

"He is not, sir."

"Is her mother?"

"She is not, sir."

"Is anybody at home?" he asked desperately.

"No body but the servants, sir."

What Macallister McIlhenny said about the servants need not be mentioned here.

"Where are they all?" was his next question, for he was not a man to throw up the sponge until the last armed foe had expired.

"They have gone to a boating party, sir."

"Oh, ah?"

"Yes, sir; it was quite unexpected, sir. The invitation came just after dinner, sir."

"Um—was there a young man in the party?" inquired Mac, trying to appear very unconcerned.

"Yes, sir; he came for Miss Montague, sir."

"Was she glad to see him?"

"Yes, sir; I should say so, sir."

"Was he glad to see her?"

"Very, sir."

A cloud settled heavily upon the brow of Macallister McIlhenny.

"Did you hear her say anything about expecting me this evening?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Ah," and again the heart of Macallister beat high with hope. "What did she say?"

The face of the liveried servant was as fixed as fate, as expressionless as a sphinx, as immobile as the countenance of a mummy.

"She said, sir," he replied, "that they had better get away before you came, sir, because if they waited until you left, sir, they wouldn't get started until it was time for breakfast, sir."

Alas, alas! By breakfast time there was no dollar in Macallister McIlhenny's pocket, and he couldn't have put his head in any pocket less in size than a coffee sack.

CURES OTHERS

Mrs. WILLIAM ROBERTS, Bridgeport, N. Y., writes: "If I had not taken your Medicine, I would not be here now. The doctors did me no good. I was just a mere skeleton, could not eat, I would have awful pain in my stomach—pain in my side, bowels and chest; sores in my back and womb; was weak, nervous, and could not sleep. I tried to get your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I commenced to improve. In two weeks could walk about the house—could eat and did not have any more pain in my stomach—threw away my morphine powder. When I first commenced taking the medicine it made me feel like I was hoarse, could not speak aloud for three days; as I got better my pains and bad feelings left me and I could sleep good; my nerves got better. Before I took your medicine I kept my bed four months—got worse all the while. I am now quite fleshy and can work all day."

Avoiding Pain and Peril.

Defensive measures against the foe are ever adopted by a wise commander. You can be commander of the situation and strike a decisive blow at the start at the dangerous and relentless enemy, rheumatism, if attacked by it, by resorting to time to Hostetler's Stomach Bitters, which checks permanently the progress of a malady among the most obstinate, painful and possibly dangerous, against which medical skill and the resources of modern medicine are arrayed. No evidence is more concurrent and convincing than that which proves that Hostetler's Stomach Bitters neutralizes the rheumatic poison and checks its further development in the system. For malaria and kidney trouble, dyspepsia, want of vitality, nervousness, liver complaint and constipation, Hostetler's Stomach Bitters is the leading remedy.

A Disputed Case.

Many persons dispute the question as to whether or not badness caused either by disease or neglect can be cured. In deciding the question allow us to say that most cases can be cured, while others can not. Only a specialist of years of experience can tell this. Professor Birkholz, the world-renowned German specialist of the Masevic Temple, Chicago, where those who desire a good head of hair or beard can consult him in private, and free of charge. After a thorough examination, which costs you nothing, we will tell you whether or not you may procure that trait of personal adornment so necessary to your existence, and if we find that the follicles are not all dead we will treat you and guarantee the results or ask no pay. Call on or address Professor Birkholz, 1011 Masonic Temple, Chicago, Ill.

Hand this notice to any first class druggist and he will get the remedy for you at once, if he is not got it in stock.
